Students Sign Their Life Away During Registration Day

Those first days of school are probably the most exciting of the year. Returning students renew old ties, while Freshmen and Transfers adjust to their new environment. But soon Freshmen become Eagles, and 425 students take pride, laughter, excitement, and progress together to form a school called, "Judson". She collects students from more than 12 states and 4 countries to give them the opportunity to move together.

As Well As On

When God's people get together,
You know that very soon,
Wonderful things will happen,
As His presence fills the room.
And right now I am expecting,
Something special,
something more.
We're together again,
we're praising the Lord.

Play It Again, Sam

Janie Peters and her homecoming committee took alumni, students and staff back to the 1940's with this year's theme, "Play It Again, Sam!"

Queen Bev Smith and King Mel Stout reigned over the week's activities after the coronation, broadcasted live in 40's style. DJ'd by Scott Johnston and Kurt Smith, the program also featured Rona (Jacqui) Larimore and the Andrew Sisters (reach-out team "Face to the Son").

President Weber started off the weekend with a bang at the Senior Class Car Bash on Friday. Weekend activities featured a dynamic concert by Keith Green and an exciting, but wet, soccer game with Aurora.

Following a family style dinner at the Embers in Elgin on Saturday, Judson graduates stole the limelight with the first Alumni Talent Show. The evening concluded with desert at the "Stardust Ball." It was truly one of Judson's loveliest homecomings ever.

Hobbies Brings Out Creativity

During the summer our students enjoyed a variety of summer sports and activities. A large number of the students enjoyed outdoor activities such as camping, boating, swimming, horse-back riding, tennis and motorcycle racing. Some indoor sports included pool, ping-pong and roller skating. A sport of great popularity was water-skiing. Some of our students can't seem to keep their feet on the ground. One young man is receiving his pilot's license while another young lady has taken up sky-diving.

Some of the less active yet equally relaxing pastimes include reading, weaving, practicing a musical instrument, or just lounging by the poolside. Other students enjoy relaxation by thinking. We have chess players as well as a few avid backgammon players. One young fellow delights in old war games of which he has hundreds that take hours to play. So, whether they bask in the sun or jump out of planes our students really know how to enjoy themselves.

Linnea Johnson's (top) Senior Project was weaving, but for a change she likes to hook rugs. Brian Smith challenges Stuart Martin (center) with one of his many complex board games. Many students like Dave Anderson (left) play pool as a hobby. (above) Some creativity with the needle and thread.

The winter came as usual to Judson this year bringing its cold, snow and the annual blizzard. They say we are heading back into the ice-age and Judson kept up with the rest of North America and their weather taking two days off because of snow storms.

Snow ball fights, sledding, snow football, ice skating and snow sculpturing were present as usual. There were some added attractions this year: people jumping from the first floor balcony of Volkman Hall into deep snow drifts and ski jumping at the Winter Carnival.

All in all, Winter turned out to be rather fun, amusing and cold. Although everyone still looked forward to the coming of Spring, Winter had its warm spots.

Sandra Daniels (right) leaps for joy when she hears of the good news, "classes are cancelled." The snow (below) started to fly, but Judsonites did not let it stop them from moving on.

It's a Season With a Reason To Be Jolly

The spirit of Christmas came as a result of many different activities. Whether or not every one get Home in time to help decorate the Family tree, there was an opportunity for everyone to help around campus. Decorating the Eyrie and the dorms brought many joilanting, fun filled moments.

Contests between classes and dorm floors became part of the excitment to see who could decorate creatively. Secret Santas made their entry into the dorms leaving supprises for all. The Student Senate gave a Christmas Open House for everyone to see their new office, there they gave gifts of Judson folders.

The feeling of Christmas was brought on through other activities also, such as the study break "Sunshine and Snowflakes." Many wished to shop at home, but the dates of Christmas Break made it difficult. So, many Judsonites took to the nearby Malls to buy their Christmas gifts before they left for home.

Doug Shipman (top) did some of his Christmas shopping in the Book Store. Karen Stilles and Kathy Leatherman (right) enjoy the Eyrie and its decorations. Judson College
Proudly Presents
THE GENESIS PLAYERS
in “The Best of All”
and
and . . .

In the short play WHAT’S COOKEN IN CAMOLET? Jeff Cooper, on the table, pretends to be a lump of dough and Kriag Kleeman the cook and Juliane Bower a German Queen tries to roll him into a loaf of bread.

In the act Dave Rollins a Wizard and Dale Slaton a servant to the King argue over some love potion.

The Judson Drama takes on a new act for 1977-78. The Genesis Players opened their season with a short three-act play written by Mr. James Cramer called, WHAT'S COOKING IN CAMELOT. The play was dedicated to the Founder's Day celebrations, it was an entertaining take-off on the original CAMELOT by Shakespeare. It was written in a satirical, witty manner, with a touch of wizardry popular in current motion pictures like STAR WARS. The costuming was designed appropriately, fitting each player into their character.

Mr. Cramer, the director of the Genesis Players, pulled together several new ideas for the team. First, they performed as a drama team, meeting daily to grow closer as a group and train for different character roles. Secondly, the team did not perform long two-hour plays, but rather short skits and one-act plays. Finally the team traveled to churches throughout the Midwest, and in California during Spring break. Because of these new ideas, the drama team became more meaningful for those students acting and in turn they brought more meaning to their performances.

Concentration helps Joy Frazier become more of the character she wishes to portray (top). In performing, expressions of the face and movement of the body become very important to Jeff Cooper, Annette Norton, Julane Bower and Kraig Kleeman (left).

Roller Skating Gives One More Reason to Get Together

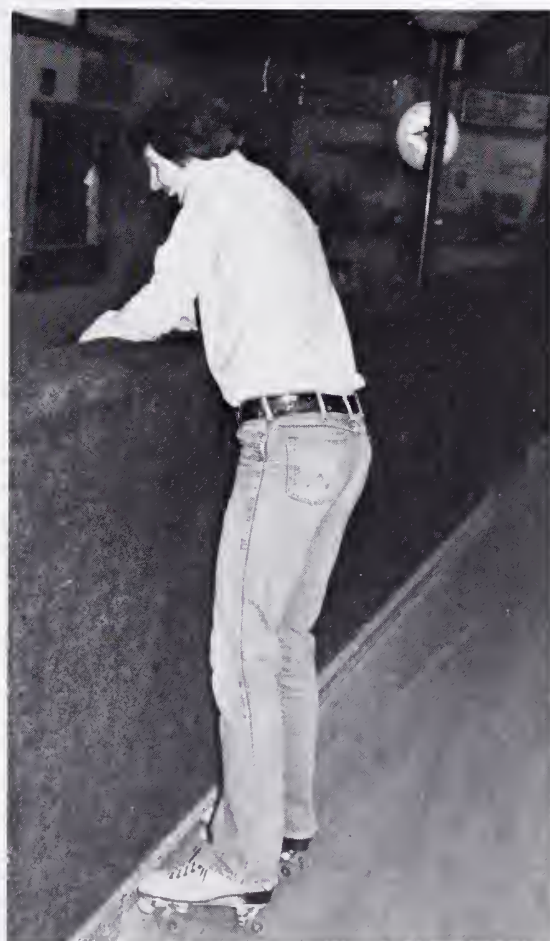

Val Bach (above) has had a little previous experience in the field of roller skating. Coach Sziksai (above right) is found not on the basketball court, but rather on the skating rink. (right) For Rhonda King it is times like these when one wishes they had a pillow tied to their pants seat. pg. 19 Naturally two hot dogs like Ed Gelasi and Tony Wold have to show off with some fancy foot work. Many found themselves like Don Long, hanging tight to the railing.

One of the activities arranged by the Student Senate Activities Committee this Winter was an evening Roller Skating in Dundee. With music and announcements of partner skating, everyone got into the mood for some trips and falls and good times together. While few girls were like Peggy Fleming on ice, most of the guys were like skaters for the Roller Derby.

The Activities Committee works diligently to give students a wide variety of fun, and this excursion was no exception. For those students unable to catch a ride to such off campus events the Student Senate provides car service. Other activities sponsored by Student Senate are movies, concerts, guest speakers, banquets, and study breaks just to name a few. Judson's social life and activities can certainly give its students the chance to learn and grow from other sources other than books.

Maintenance provided rakes, trash bags, window cleaner and rags for students like Cleo Fritch (below) and for faculty teachers like Dr. Clossman (right) to use.

Judsonites Keep'n Clean Through Campus Clean-up

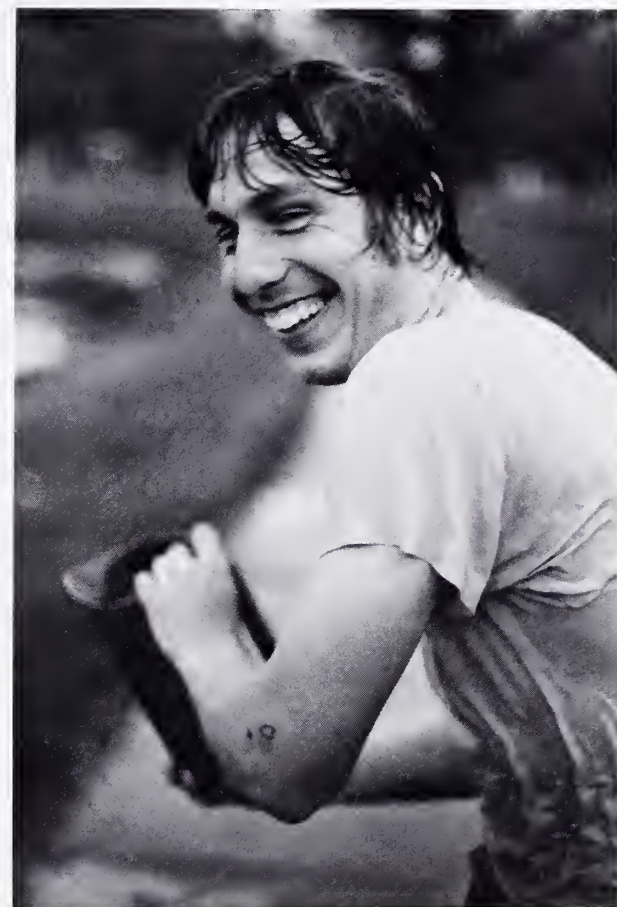

One wonders how much work Ken Atterholt and Ron Colson did in helping to keep the campus clean.

and Water Fights

The Winter Banquet Committee, headed by Marilee Maddox, chose the candlelight Dinner Playhouse to be the scene for Judson's Winter social gathering. The festivities began in the early afternoon with the crowning of Mary Ann Clossman as Queen.

The fourth-five minute drive into Chicago was well worth it, because everyone enjoyed a delicious seven course dinner and a superb stage production of THE SOUND OF MUSIC. Hearts fell in love with the von Trapp children and with the voice of Maria (Iris Lieberman). It was a memorable evening for all who attended.

SHORE CLUB

Plus Spring Banquet

In the planning for the Banquet, the committee arranged to have some special ideas to get students interested and help promote sales. One such idea was when Tim MacLean went to dinner wearing a wet suit and all the accessories. Rain or sunshine he was ready for a swim, and he was inviting everyone to join him.

Unfortunately April showers sometimes carry over into May, and this year was one of the sometimes. Most couples had dressed a little less formal for the Spring Banquet, because on the agenda there was to be a boat trip on Lake Geneva, Wisconsin. But with a quick thinking committee, lead by Linnea Johnson, they came up with some very entertaining alternatives. After dinner at the Shore Club, the guests were entertained with folk music by a delightful young couple, also the Spring Queen Karen Heath and her court was announced after dinner. Following the trip to Shore Club students went back to Judson for a midnight snack and movie in the Eyrie. The unexpected rain turned out to be a blessing in disguise.

A "Taste" of the Orient

There was no Chop Suey or Fortune Cookies served at this dinner, but the menu did include Baby Eel, Dried Sanid, Pickled Ginger, Sea Urchins, and Kampyo. For many, these appetizers were not exactly appetizing. But for the brave and daring it was new and different and even delicious.

Among some of the diners were teachers with their wives and children, as well as administrators and their families. Everyone was put to the test when they tried to eat with the chop sticks. Mr. Hsieh and Mr. Young found themselves demonstrating and teaching others the technique of using their chop sticks properly.

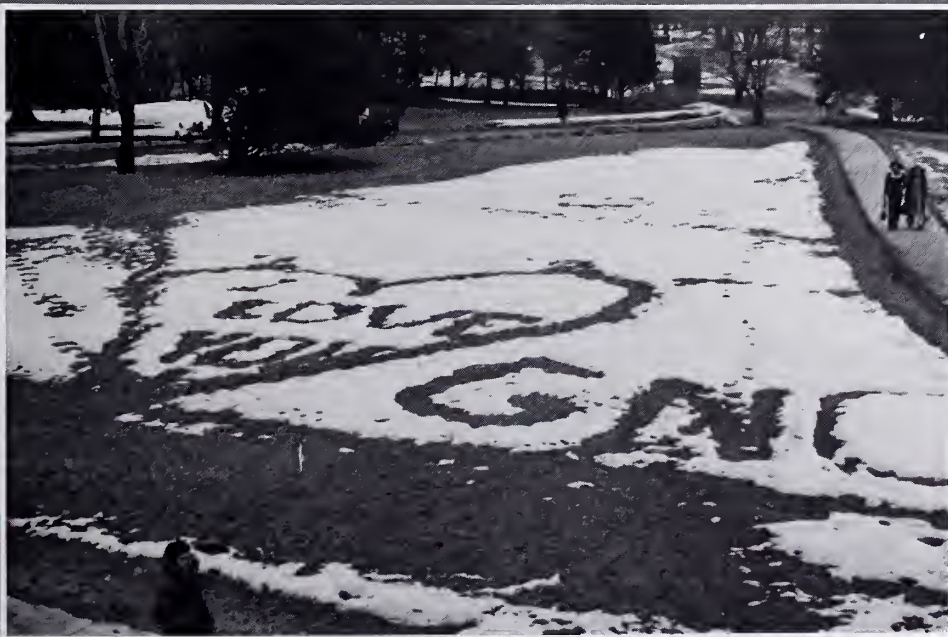

While more food landed in laps and back in the plates, everyone tasted something good and all enjoyed the International Japanese Dinner. Such a dinner was a first for Judson, but hopefully it will become a tradition in the years to come.

in SPORTS

Eagles Host First Annual Kick-Off Tournament

Judson's back to school soccer life began with its first Annual Kick-off Tournament, hosting John Wesley, Greenville, and Bethel. Judson was defeated by Bethel in the first game in a close 4-5 lose. In the consolation games Judson played Greenville bring Eagle fans a glorious victory of 3-1.

The 1977 Eagles played a rough season finishing 4-9-1. The Homecoming game against Aurora was an excellent example of the agony of defeat. Both teams were held to a scoreless game until after the half time when Aurora put in a quick scoring shot. Persistent efforts by Judson proved to be insufficient when the horn blew and the game was over with a 0-1 score. The defensive team was lead by senior Paul Lamp, who was named All-Conference. With the loss of six graduating seniors and Coach Irwin, next years team is going to have a tough road ahead. But with prayer and hard work they can go far.

Abeb Aychelouhem (left) used some fancy foot work to guide the ball in for a score. Serawite Tadesse (below) has no trouble with the ball in a two-on-one situation. Joh Lambert hussels to keep the ball out of Judson territory with Dana Eddy there to back him up (bottom).

Volleyballers Face New Opposition

This year was a tough season for the woman's volleyball team. They traveled to two tournaments playing new teams like East Peoria, George Williams, Olivet Nazarene, Beloit and others which were hard to beat. Their experience and numbers out weighed the Eagleettes hard efforts. But the Eagleettes spirit of union was greater than any other to be found. The girls cheered for one another until the last game. With all the members eligible to return next year, hopefully the group will grow in confidence and experience needed to form a winning team.

Unfortunately the team will be losing a valuable person who has pulled the entire woman's sports program together in the past three years. Her name is Lois Moulton. She was able to build rookie players into veterans. She helped to establish scholarships, and dressed the teams beautifully, supplying equipment for them to play in better conditions than ever before. From this excellent beginning everyone will be looking forward to next year and what it may bring.

Cross Country Builds Endurance

Cross Country is a demanding sport. Participants must run a great number of miles year-round to build the endurance needed for long races. The rolling hills on Judson's campus make for ideal work outs. But any good Cross Country team needs dept, at least seven members to be top finishers against other intercollegiate teams. Unfortunately Judson only had a total of five runners, and one transfer en-eligible to compete. Yet their love for competition was never defeated. The team ran against more than ten colleges and hosted the Judson Invitational and the NIIC Conference Meet. Senior Mike Neisler lead the runners in the long distance races, while freshman Ruben Mendez had good speed as well as endurance. Expectations from Dan Yentes is high, and hopes for a strong team is expected for next year.

At Judson's Invitational Mike Meisler (top), Alen Ford (middle), and Dennis Judy (bottom) help to bring their team in for second place.

Cheerleaders and

The 1977-78 Cheerleading team expanded their size this year with two girls returning, and seven new members including three males. The team lead fans with new cheers and performed new mounts, with one in particular taking the audience's breath away. Joy McBain would mount on the shoulders of Jeff Cooper, then fall into the waiting arms of the other members. Luckily it worked perfectly every time. The girls also bought new shoes and sweaters, keeping in style with the times. But they were not the only ones to be in new clothes. The Pom Pon squad bought new sweaters and skirts, too. Not only did they entertain the crowds with their good looks, but with their delightful routines as well. They used a wide variety of music from the movie ROCK-IE to Christmas music sang by the choir. Both squads add pep and promoted spirit to the games.

Roundballers Compile 2-24 Record

The 1977-78 Judson Basketball team compiled a somewhat disappointing 2-24 season record, winning the first and last season games. However, that record is not really indicative of how competitive the Eagles were. They played two games in overtime, winning one, and they lost eight others by six points or less against some of the toughest competition in the NCCAA.

This was a rebuilding year for the team. Only four men returned and seven new players came in. To help bring the players closer together as a unit, Coach Sziksai and the team went on a weekend retreat into Wisconsin. They did not play ball, but rather they shared views and values and grew spiritually, building close friendships among one another.

Team fight and the will to win was in Cary Young and the others all year long (right).

Since becoming an intercollegiate sport in 1976, the tennis team has gradually grown in strength and popularity. The team compiled the best all-around record of 3-7 as compared to the other Judson teams this 1977-78 year. All of the seven players lettered by winning two or more matches. Randy Marshall brought in the most wins with five matches, while Al Holder played the number one spot for the team.

Just as the soccer and volleyball teams will be losing their coach for next year so does Tennis. Coach Steve Cassells helped to form the team in 1975-76 and the following year introduced them as an intercollegiate sport to Judson. The team wished him the best by honoring him with a plaque and a thank-you hand shake at the Sports Award.

Drama, Songs, Words, Reach Out

Reach out and touch. That is the primary purpose for each of the reach out teams. Whether, through drama, song or word, Judson students travel to Churches, Woman's clubs, and Youth group meetings to share with people what God means to their lives. Each team develops a personal character with the name they choose, the songs they sing, and the message they give. There were two male trio groups, two female quartet groups, two mixed teams and a new drama team this year. The drama team was fortunate enough to travel to California presenting their material to American Baptist churches during Spring Break.

The new summer team, Servant, began rehearsing in the later months of Winter semester in order to record an album in May. The team travels throughout Illinois and surrounding states. Another team, Turning Point, stayed together through Spring Semester and the early part of Summer singing in Midwestern and Eastern States.

Volkman 5 Is New Student Senate Home

The first floor of Volkman Hall went through a remodeling stage during the Summer months. The Bookstore moved down the hall, the C.P.O. and Plant Operations expanded, and Student Senate found a new home. The large empty storage room was carpeted, painted, filled with filling cabinates, tables, desks, and chairs, and had new curtains to turn it into a comfortable, new Senate Office. With the new accommodations Senate held open meetings inviting Students to sit in and participate—and they did. Students came to Senate asking for a change in off-campus living. Senate looked into the possibility of lowering the age for off-campus residents. A purposal will be presented to the board of Trustees in July, and hopefully their efforts to change the old policy will be accepted.

Senate had a difficult beginning with the budget. Several bills carried over from the previous year and student enrollment was less than expected. But they pulled funds together and was able to start fresh. Senate was able to increase Yearbook and Newspaper funds, and Activity and Spiritual life funds. They also aided new organizations such as Ski Club and Academic Life with funds to give them a running start.

Views Book with Pride

Editor-in-chief, Joni Boswell, began planning for the 1977-78 Lantern early in the Summer of 77. Decisions on theme, number of pages, colored pictures and staff meetings were important beginnings in putting together the yearbook. Joni also attended a publications work shop at Wheaton College during the year to learn of new, up-to-date ideas in yearbooking. In the Fall, interested students became staff members and began cropping pictures, writing copy and cutlines, and drawing up final sheets for each dead line. In the beginning the pages looked a mess, but as pictures and copy and ideas arose things began to fall in place.

After the graduation of three photographers from the previous year, the editor worried about pictures, but experienced freshman filled their places. The four new photographers attended many school functions looking for pictures to take. Jonathan Fletcher also helped the yearbook with photos from his files. Advisor Mr. Sherbondy and later Peter Powell contributed much with guidance and opinions to make this year's book the best.

Judson Blessed

with S.E.W. Speaker, Rev. Garrison

Spiritual Enrichment Week, S.E.W., became a sewing time for many at Judson. Students mended their hearts and minds and found the proper prospective on studies, friends, and their relationship with Christ. Others tailored their thoughts on Christ's will for their life. Rev. Garrison, a Southern Baptist pastor from Belleville Illinois, spoke each morning in Chapel of love, caring, discipline, faith, God, and his word. During the afternoon Rev. Garrison had private counseling sessions with students who wished to share a problem or a blessing. The week ended with an Evening Communion and Burning Service. Students wrote on a piece of paper about areas of their lives which they wanted to hand over to the Lord and let him deal with them in His personal way, then they shared communion. Although, S.E.W. was in the coldest month of the year, it became the warmest week in the hearts and minds of everyone involved.

During mid-week, Rev. Garrison speaks of "Compassion Without Compromise" (upper left). Dr. Myhrman introduces special music by a Reach Out Team for a chapel service (left). On June 10, 1978, many graduating Seniors and their families and friends reunite to celebrate the long awaited graduation day. The festivities began early in the evening with a buffet dinner. George Bell, President of Alumni, and Scott Johnston, coordinator, welcome the soon-to-be graduates as Alumni of Judson. Following the buffet, guests were invited to the annual concert at the amphitheatre. The program included the Handbell Ringers, Brass Ensemble, Chamber Singers and College Choir. The Choir premiered Dr. Edward Thompson's composition REMEMBER THY CREATOR. For many it was an evening to remember, as the cool breeze blew from the river and the sun set in the west and music filled the air.

Sunday morning, the Baccalaureate service was held at the Herrick Chapel. Seniors dressed in cap, gown and hood absorbed the words of Dr. John Sundquist, on the theme "Worthy of the Gospel." Later that afternoon the Seniors gathered together for the last time. The Commencement service was located at Hemmens Auditorium in which Seniors received their diplomas. Honors from Student Senate and high scholastic standing were awarded. Class President Don Rissler presented the school with a set of Bibles for the Chapel in memory of the class of '78.

WITH PEOPLE

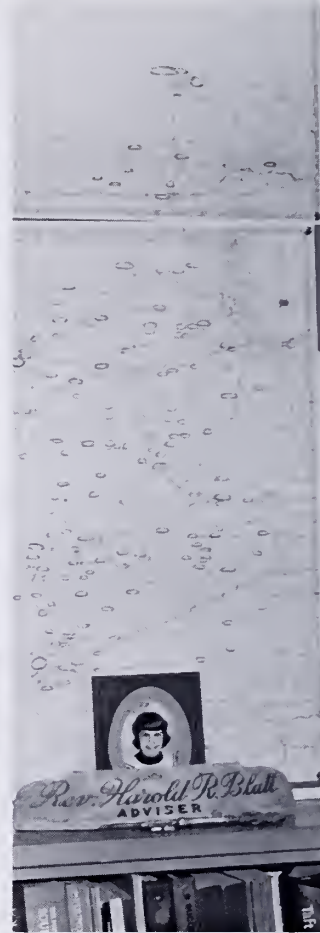

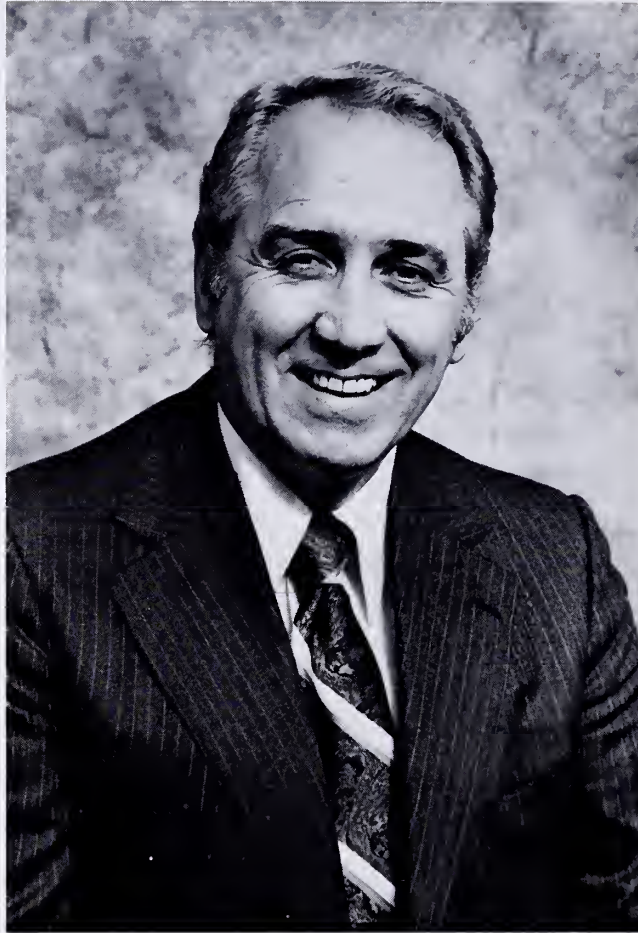

The House on the Hill:

The house on the hill was once a home. Before Judson was a college, the large building was centerpiece of the 19 acre Braeburn-on-the-Fox estate. Today it is often called "the ad building." For students it is a place to pay bills, register for classes and have a talk with a dean. Primarily, it is the place where administrators oversee operation of the college. Some 28 staff persons run a multitude of student services, from academic affairs to admissions, financial aid to fundraising.

The top five administrators of the college have offices there. They comprise the college's cabinet. Dr. Harm A. Weber is president and chief executive officer. Ultimately, any major decision is reviewed and approved by him before it gains final approval from the governing board of trustees, which consists of 59 private citizens from throughout the country. Dr. Weber is a native of Pekin, Illinois, and educated at St. Paul, Minnesota. The former member of the Judson board of trustees became the college's third president in 1969. He and his family recently moved to a new home, down the road from Judson on Route 31, in Dundee.

Dr. Edgar W. Boss, dean of the college, has been with Judson since its founding in 1963. The Lisle, Illinois, native is in charge of all academic affairs including course selection and faculty assignments. He studied at Wheaton (Ill.) College and Northern Baptist Theological Seminary in Lombard, Illinois. In addition to administrative duties, he teaches at Judson.

Dr. Harold R. Blatt, vice president for development, is in overall charge of fund raising, admissions and communications. The York, Pennsylvania, native studied at Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; and Houghton (N.Y.) College. He served with Army Intelligence in Japan and was active in Gospel missions programs. He and his wife, Jean, were missionaries in the Philippines. Dr. Blatt first came to Judson in 1965.

Dr. James W. Didier, dean of campus life, has duties covering clubs, special events, social life and campus maintenance. He also teaches. The native of Berkley, Michigan, holds degrees from Alma (Mich.) College, Northern Baptist Theological Seminary and Michigan State University, East Lansing. His wife, Joan, is health services director on campus.

F. John Fitzwilliam, business manager, is in charge of budget and accounting operations. Born in China of missionary parents, his early education was in the Far Eastern country. College and graduate level work was at Wheaton College, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, and Northern Illinois University, DeKalb. Prior to coming to Judson, he was involved in business activities for area public schools.

Admissions Recruits 160 New Students for 1977-78

The Admissions not only recruited 160 freshman and transfers, but they also recruited two new admission counselors. Kelly Wallace of Ohio and Kevin Lyons of Illinois were both 1977 Judson graduates. Each work within their states visiting high schools and churches, and they travel with the choir if they are performing in their area.

But these two were not the only new employees. As the school increases each year in student body number, so does the faculty, staff and administration. There were four new teachers, two new administrators, and over ten new staffers employed. With their services available to the students, each can move together more efficiently and more effectively while at Judson.

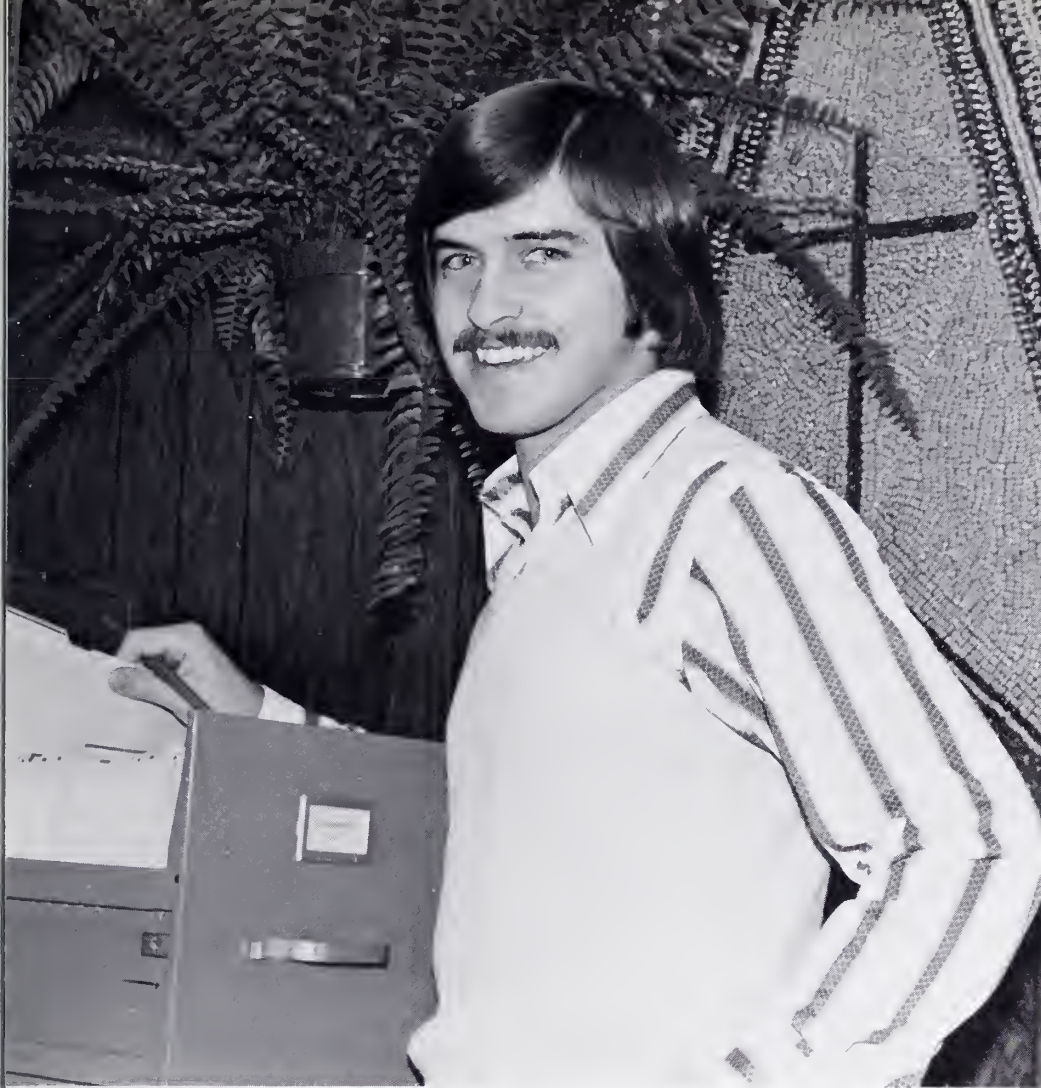

Alice Foreman and Edloris Bloomfield work diligently to register students each semester.

Faculty Members Move Together Within Class Room

The teachers move together not only in board meetings, or faculty meetings, or curriculum planning meetings, but within the class rooms as well. More and more classes are being team taught with enormous success. One example is the three Humanity courses: Search for Order, Social Contract, and Creative Process. In each of these classes four teachers from different departments lecture from their knowledge of background giving the students the chance to hear several views on a particular topic. But the Humanity classes are just the beginning, other classes like Arts in the Church, U.S. in the 1920's, Mass Media seminars, and Drama classes use the team teaching method or invite other faculty members to speak in a class he would otherwise not be involved with. While the planning and division of responsibility between the teachers may be difficult for such classes, the variety of opinions and personalities which come out makes for an interesting learning experience for the student.

Seniors

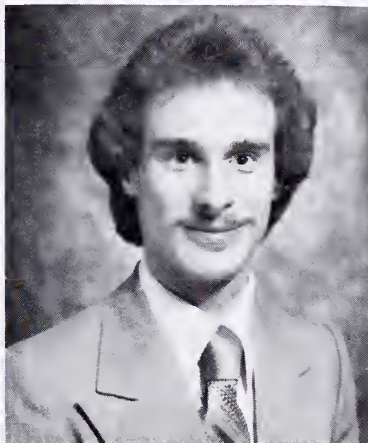

Undeterred by the Humanity classes, the never ending number of papers to write, or the lack of funds, the graduating class of 1978 earned their Bachelor of Arts degree from Judson.

With only 88 graduating members the Seniors were always demonstrating the most pride. Seniors assumed top roles in extracurricular activities, and were honored on homecoming courts and as team captains.

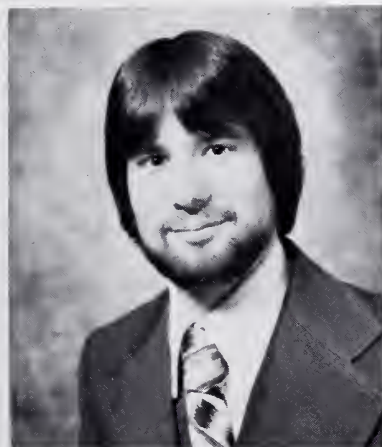

They lead the way, moving together as the underclassmen followed close behind. But when the time came nostalgia and relief were the feelings of many Seniors as they ventured forth to face their separate worlds.

Middlers Become Parents

President Zannette Lovette and her officers Linda Anderson, Brenda Stives, and Debra Anderson have great expectations of their new year at Judson.

The Middler class became a parent to a little seven year old boy in India. The class pulled together in spirit, prayer and money. They raised funds to help cloth, feed and educated him. One of the money raising ideas was a Win-a-date contest. Two students from each class, male and female, were chosen to be the prize. The other students bought tickets hoping that their ticket would be drawn on the final day. The dates had dinner in the PDR and was followed by a movie in the Fine Arts Recital Hall. All in all, it was a big hit and the money was certainly well spent.

The growing involvement of the class was displayed in other campus activities such as parties in the Eyrie and Bible study groups. They provided new leadership in clubs, sports and spiritual enrichment.

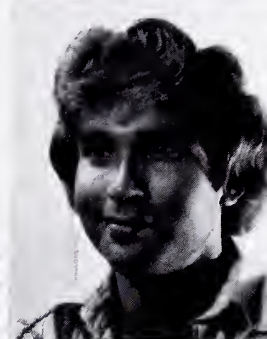

The class members decided on such things as a major, and future job careers in Christian work, counseling, music, business, and communications. Enthusiasm and a sense of purpose marked a class midway in their college career.

The Freshmen soon learn of the cold winters at Judson, But it gives them one more reason to move closer together. (bottom left) Donna Thompson challenges anyone at a game of air hockey. (bottom) Carol Heskett just loves Sesame Street characters.

Let Glenn Moore and Robert Swartz (right) serve you to a delicious dinner from Coronet's Food Service. "Say it with Love." and let flowers for Valentine's Day, Birthdays, or Just Because Days say to someone special "I Love You."

Judson College
something exciting,
something good.
Filled with expectations,
an experience with our lives,
our friendships,
our growth
open doors.
Like a stream
today tomorrow forever-moving.

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose.

Romans 8:28
